

EMP 340: Environmental Movements

This course examines the role of environmental movements in the development of policies for environmental protection and on the role of nongovernmental organizations in environmental politics and policy more generally.

Units: 3

Program: Environmental Management and Policy